

web-crawler-internal-linking

This project is a command line application using Node.js.

The purpose of the application is to crawl a website and produce a report of the internal linking structure of the website. params